

Writing Music

This is a detail of music from the page in the medieval choir book. In the notes below, each staff line represents a specific pitch. A tune is made up of a series of square notes. This way of writing music is called square notation.

Listen to a small choir sing the music in this book on the "Multimedia" list at http://getty.edu/education/teachers/classroom_resources/curricula/performing_arts/multimedia.html