DATE: April 8, 2010
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

INTERNATIONAL SCHOLARS COME TOGETHER AT THE GETTY MUSEUM FOR A SYMPOSIUM ADDRESSING HISTORICAL ANALOGIES BETWEEN THE AZTECS AND ANCIENT ROME

Altera Roma: Art and Empire from the Aztecs to New Spain

At the J. Paul Getty Museum at the Getty Villa on Friday, April 30, and, Saturday, May 1

LOS ANGELES—Scholars from around the world will gather at the J. Paul Getty Museum at the Getty Villa on April 30 and May 1, 2010, to explore one of history’s most momentous confrontations, an encounter between two cultures, European and Mesoamerican, and two empires, Spanish and Aztec. The two-day symposium – Altera Roma: Art and Empire from the Aztecs to New Spain – is being presented in conjunction with the exhibition The Aztec Pantheon and the Art of Empire, on view at the Getty Villa through July 5, 2010.

The exhibition and accompanying symposium examine the contexts in which classicism mediated a dialogue between Mesoamerica and Europe in the 1500s–1700s, when parallels were routinely drawn between the Old World past and the pre-Hispanic cultures of the New World. More specifically, the symposium will address cross-cultural analogies in the early modern period, as well as current comparative approaches to the archaeology of empire. Topics include the notion of parallel pantheons and classical paradigms for Aztec culture; the representation of Aztec life in post-conquest Mexico and Europe; monumental art as an imperial strategy and the Florentine Codex, an iconic chronicle of Aztec culture from the Biblioteca Medicea Laurenziana in Florence, Italy.

- more -
Amongst the distinguished group of international speakers and contributors to the symposium are top experts in the field of classicism and Pre-Columbian art including Elizabeth Hill Boone, Tulane University, New Orleans; Thomas B.F. Cummins, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts; Guilhem Olivier Durand, Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México, Mexico City; Jonathan Edmondson, York University, Toronto; Eulogio Guzmán, Tufts University, Boston; Cecelia F. Klein, University of California, Los Angeles; Andrew Laird, University of Warwick, England; Leonardo López Luján, Museo del Templo Mayor/INAH, Mexico City; David Lupher, University of Puget Sound, Tacoma; Anthony Pagden, University of California, Los Angeles; John Pohl, University of California, Los Angeles; Alessandra Russo, Columbia University, New York City; Walter Scheidel, Stanford University, California, and Emily Umberger, Arizona State University, Tempe.

The symposium is presented in association with the Cotsen Institute of Archaeology at the University of California, Los Angeles, and is made possible by the generous support of Chase.

The symposium is open to the public for $15 per day and $10 per day for students. The fee includes parking, coffee/tea service, and reception on Friday evening. Advance registration for each day required. To register for the symposium, visit www.getty.edu or call (310) 440-7300.

In addition to the symposium, there will also be a public lecture on the Florentine Codex at the Getty Villa on Thursday, April 29. Diana Magaloni Kerpel, director of the Museo Nacional de Antropología in Mexico City, shares her research on the Codex. Created by Bernardino de Sahagún and a group of Nahua scholars between 1575 and 1577, the Codex is an encyclopedic study of Aztec history and culture. Accompanying its Spanish and native Nahuatl language texts are some 2,500 ink and watercolor drawings. The Codex's illustrations can be read as a third hidden text, reflecting both the pre-Hispanic tradition of painting-writing employed to record human history and the classical legacy of Renaissance Europe. The centerpiece of the exhibition, The Aztec Pantheon and the Art of Empire, the Codex returns to the Americas for the first time in over 400 years for the exhibition.

Celebrating the bicentennial of Mexican independence, The Aztec Pantheon and the Art of Empire, on view through July 5, 2010, presents extraordinary masterworks of Aztec sculpture, largely from the collections of the Museo Nacional de Antropología and the Museo del Templo Mayor in Mexico City, represents the J. Paul Getty Museum's first display of antiquities from outside the ancient Mediterranean as well as the first exhibition on the Aztec empire to be organized in Los Angeles.

For symposium schedule and registration info, please visit,

http://www.getty.edu/museum/symposia/alteraroma.html

# #

MEDIA CONTACT: Beth Brett
Getty Communications
310-440-6473
bbrett@getty.edu

The J. Paul Getty Trust is an international cultural and philanthropic institution devoted to the visual arts that features the J. Paul Getty Museum, the Getty Research Institute, the Getty Conservation Institute, and the Getty Foundation. The J. Paul Getty Trust and Getty programs serve a varied audience from two locations: the Getty Center in Los Angeles and the Getty Villa in Malibu.

Visiting the Getty Villa
The Getty Villa is open Wednesday through Monday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is closed Tuesday and major holidays. Admission to the Getty Villa is always free. A ticket is required for admission. Tickets can be ordered in advance, or on the day of your visit, at www.getty.edu/visit or at (310) 440-7300. Parking is $15 per car, but free after 5pm for evening events. Groups of 15 or more must make reservations by phone. For more information, call 310-440-7300 (English or Spanish); 310-440-7305 (TTY line for the deaf or hearing impaired). The Getty Villa is at 17985 Pacific Coast Highway, Pacific Palisades, California.

Additional information is available at www.getty.edu.
Sign up for e-Getty at www.getty.edu/subscribe to receive free monthly highlights of events at the Getty Center and the Getty Villa via e-mail, or visit www.getty.edu for a complete calendar of public program.

Image caption and credit information:

Aztec Deities
Bernardino de Sahagún
Spanish, 1499–1590
Historia general de las cosas de Nueva España (General History of the Things of New Spain), also called the Florentine Codex vol. 1, 1575–1577
Colonial Mexican
Watercolor, paper, contemporary vellum Spanish binding
Open (approx.): H: 32 x W: 43 cm (12 5/8 x 16 15/16 in.)
Object (above deck, approx.): H: 16 cm (6 5/16 in.) Closed: H: 32 x W: 22 x D: 5 cm (12 5/8 x 8 11/16 x 1 5/16 in.)
VEX.2010.2.28
Biblioteca Medicea Laurenziana, Florence, Italy, Fi 100 Med.Palat. 218
Su concessione del Ministero per i Beni e le Attività Culturali. È vietata ogni ulteriore riproduzione con qualsiasi mezzo.