Abstract:	Notable art dealers from the late nineteenth to the mid-twentieth century. The records provide a detailed view of the Duveen Brothers business activities in London, Paris, and New York. Although the archive extends from 1876 to 1981, the bulk of the material dates from Joseph Duveen's tenure as president of the firm, 1909-1939, and the period 1939-1964 when Edward Fowles directed the firm (with Armand Lowengard until 1943). The mass of documents, such as cables and letters, invoices, and ledger and stock books, give a day-by-day account of art dealing, business strategy, and the individuals involved. Included are some records from the Kleinberger Galleries, 1906-1971, and 6 linear feet of Edward Fowles's papers.

Biographical/Historical Note

Duveen Brothers, notable art dealers in London, Paris, and New York from the late nineteenth century to the mid-twentieth century, brought to America high quality old master paintings and decorative arts from the great private collections in Europe. Under the guidance of Joseph Duveen (1869-1939) and assisted by art experts, most notably Bernard Berenson, the Duveen Brothers monopolized the American art market for five decades. Duveen Brothers helped to form the art collections of many extremely wealthy Americans. A number of these collections became the nuclei of U.S. museums such as the Frick Collection, the Huntington Art Collections and the National Gallery of Art.

The Duveen Brothers business began when Joseph Joel Duveen (1843-1908) and his younger brother, Henry J. Duveen (1855-1918), left their home in Meppel, Holland for Hull, England. They specialized in selling delftware from their native Holland and later branched out to include Chinese porcelain, tapestries, furniture, and old master paintings. The Duveens opened a London office in 1879; a New York office followed in 1886. In 1897 the firm closed a temporary shop located on the rue de la Paix in Paris and reopened a grander store on the Place Vendôme, later referred to as the "Little Palace." By this time Duveen Brothers was purchasing important paintings, including acquisitions from the Mulgrave Castle sale of 1890 and the Murrieta sale of 1892.

Shortly after Henry J. Duveen arrived in New York to head the office there, his brother Joseph Joel sent his son Joseph (later Sir Joseph of Millbank, also known as Joe or just Duveen) to assist his uncle Henry. By the 1880s Henry had developed a clientele of American millionaires whose wealth in those years was without precedent. Joseph became more active in the management of the New York house, took over its operations in 1907, and served as president of the firm between 1909 and 1939. One of the first changes Joseph Duveen made was to move the New York house to a more highly visible location on Fifth Avenue. He transformed the Duveen show rooms, displaying art with dramatic lighting in lavish surroundings. He made grand gestures to persuade prospective clients, as, for example, when he had an elaborate plaster model of Senator Clark's Fifth Avenue mansion constructed (at the cost of $20,000) to entice the Senator to hire Duveen Brothers to furnish it.

While in New York Joseph made a number of bold purchases on behalf of Duveen Brothers. In 1906 he acquired three large collections: the Rodolfe Kann collection, the Maurice Kann collection, and the Hainauer collection. In 1927 he bought the Robert H. Benson collection of 114 Italian paintings in England and three years later he purchased the Dreyfus collection of Italian paintings and sculpture in Paris. Joseph sold selections from the Dreyfus collection to Andrew Mellon and Samuel H. Kress; these items formed the core of the National Gallery collections in Washington, D.C. As late as 1939, the year of his death, Joseph was still selling paintings and sculpture from these purchases.

As president of Duveen Brothers, Joseph developed with a number of clients extremely close ties that went beyond influencing their art-buying habits. He arranged travel plans for his important clients, designed their table settings, and stored their preferred cigars in the Duveen Brothers' vaults. Joseph Duveen was actively involved in numerous art organizations and served as a trustee for the National Gallery, London; the Wallace Collection; and the Imperial Gallery of Art, London. He was a member of the Council of the British School at Rome and of the National Art Collections Fund. Joseph founded the British Artists Exhibitions Organization for the encouragement of lesser known British artists. He provided for additions to and extensions of London museums, such as the Tate Gallery (a new building of several galleries for modern foreign art, works by Sargent, and modern foreign sculpture), the National Gallery (a new building), the National Portrait Gallery (a new building of several galleries), London University, and the British Museum (a new building for the housing of the Elgin marbles and Nereid statues). In 1930 he wrote Thirty Years of British Art.

The Duveen Brothers' business began to decline after Joseph's death in 1939, at which time Armand Lowengard (Joseph Duveen's nephew) and Edward Fowles became joint owners of the firm. When Lowengard died in 1943, Edward Fowles assumed the presidency of Duveen Brothers. The Nazi occupation of France forced Duveen Brothers to evacuate Paris. The London office closed shortly thereafter. After the war Duveen Brothers had a number of notable clients, such as Henry Ford II and Robert Lehman, but the business never regained its former vibrancy. In 1964 Edward Fowles sold Duveen Brothers to Norton Simon, including the East 79th Street mansion and all remaining stock (excluding the business records). Edward Fowles served as a consultant to the Norton Simon Foundation and, in 1968, donated his papers and the Duveen Brothers business records to the Metropolitan Museum of Art where they were housed until 1996. In 1969 the Sterling & Francine Clark Art Institute purchased the Duveen library of books, periodicals, exhibition catalogues, and sales catalogues, along with a portion of the Duveen Brothers business records that was interfiled with the library and remains at the Clark. In 1996 the Metropolitan Museum of Art donated the Duveen archive to the Research Library at the Getty Research Institute.

Scope and Content of Collection

The Duveen Brothers archive, 1876-1981, contains the business records for Duveen Brothers offices in New York, London, and Paris in ca. 394 linear feet (585 boxes, 18 flat file folders, ca. 2,000 negatives). It includes ledgers, sales books, stock reports, inventories, invoices, correspondence (letters and cables), manuscripts, newspaper and magazine clippings, photographs, X rays of paintings, acetate and glass plate negatives.

Also included in the archive are two related groups of records. The Edward Fowles papers, 1917-1981 (6 linear ft.), primarily date from his period in the Paris office of Duveen, but include some personal papers, particularly related to his memoir about Duveen Brothers. Kleinberger & Co., Inc. records, 1906-1971 (9 linear ft.), comprise correspondence with clients and other dealers, and include a small number of personal papers of Harry G. Sperling, president of Kleinberger Galleries.

The bulk of the Duveen records dates from Joseph Duveen's tenure as president of the firm, between 1909-1939, with relatively full coverage through Edward Fowles's tenure until 1964. The collection extensively documents the Duveen Brothers firm. The mass of detailed records, such as cables, letters, and invoices, provide a day-by-day account of art dealing, business strategy, and the individuals involved. The correspondence in particular highlights the relationships between employees of the Duveen Brothers, (e.g., Henry, Edward, and Joseph Duveen, Edward Fowles, Armand Lowengard, and Bertram Boggis) and clients, museum directors, curators, art historians, art dealers, restorers, scouts, and other consultants. The correspondence between the Duveen branches is voluminous and revealing of the strategies employed in buying and selling art. Much of the correspondence is in carbon copies with smaller amounts of original materials.

Extensive correspondence, as well as stock books, sales books, and invoices trace the movement of paintings, sculpture, and European and Asian decorative arts bought and sold through the firm. Correspondence with and about owners and collectors concerns offers, sales, and purchases, predominately of Italian and English old masters, for such clients as J.S. Bache, H.C. Frick, J.P. Morgan, H.E. Huntington, S.H. Kress, E.T. Stotesbury, and A. Mellon, to name just a few. Twelve boxes (6 lin.ft.) hold correspondence between Bernard Berenson and Duveen Brothers staff. Many letters document the correspondence with other scholars, such as Wilhelm von Bode, Max Friedländer, L. Venturi, Leo Planiscig, George Swarzenski, W.R. Valentiner, upon whom Duveen Brothers relied for expert opinions. Also included are records of lawsuits (Hahn vs. Duveen; Hamilton vs. Duveen). Nearly 2,000 negatives, ca. 100 X rays of paintings, and ca. 1,000 photographs (some annotated by Berenson and other art experts) document stock handled by the firm.

Not included in the archive, but retained by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, are the bound X book (1910-1927), that documents the paintings authenticated by Bernard Berenson and sold by Duveen, and 10 client summary books (1894-1959) that record specific sales to clients. Also at the Metropolitan Museum are some 20 binders of photographs printed from the negatives in the archive. The Sterling & Francine Clark Art Institute holds approximately 240 cubic feet of Duveen records, along with the Duveen library of books and catalogues, many of them annotated.

Between 1999 and 2002 the Duveen archive was microfilmed by the SRLF Preservation Microfilming Service at UCLA for the Research Library at the Getty Research Institute. Also microfilmed were the X book and client summary notebooks owned by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Microfilm reel numbers are noted in the Container list, below.

Administrative Information

Access

A microfilm copy (422 reels) of the archive is open for use by qualified researchers. The original papers are restricted because they are brittle and fragile. Additional microfilm copies of the archive have been deposited at the Thomas J. Watson Library of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, the Witt Library of the Courtauld Institute in London, and at the Institut national d'histoire de l'art in Paris.

Processing History

The Photography Studio of the Metropolitan Museum of Art (in particular, Arvia Higgins and Nora Kennedy) cleaned, conserved, re-housed, and indexed the Duveen negatives, 1993-ca. 1996, prior to shipping the archive to the Getty.

At the Getty Research Library, Lynn Tapia and J. Gibbs performed initial unpacking and re-housing, and made a preliminary box list, May - June 1996.

The following people processed the collection between 1996 and 2002: Julie Rosenberg, Vladimira Stefura, Teresa Morales, Jenny Vasquez, Trevor Bond, Courtney Booker, Ted Walbye, Jan Bender and J. Gibbs.

Teresa Morales arranged most of the archive and created a draft finding aid, between August 1997-July 1998.

The archive was microfilmed by the Microfilm Unit of the Southern Regional Library Facility, UCLA, between April 1999 and May 2002.

Karen Meyer-Roux edited and revised the finding aid in July and August 2014, February and March 2015.

Digitized Material

The collection, with the exception of Series III., was digitized between 2011-2014 under the auspices of the Kress Foundation: <http://hdl.handle.net/10020/960015>

^ Return to Table of ContentsSeries II. Correspondence and papers, 1901-1981 ca. 155 lin. ft.Correspondence and papersScope and Contents:

This series broadly covers the interaction between the Duveen Brothers firm and its clients and business associates. The series consists of correspondence between the firm's branches, and with museums, scouts, other dealers, art experts, owners and collectors, about works of art offered, researched, bought, and sold. Other files document lawsuits and exhibitions. Included are a portion of the Kleinberger & Co. Inc. records (8.5 linear ft.), papers of Edward Fowles (6 linear ft.), and correspondence (6 linear ft.) between Bernard Berenson and Duveen Brothers staff.

Series II.A. Files regarding works of art, 1904-1962 ca. 41 lin. ft.Files regarding works of artScope and Contents:

The subseries consists of correspondence related to offers, purchases, and sales of artworks. It includes inter-office correspondence between the Duveen branches, correspondence with scouts, other dealers, owners, experts, and in some cases, collectors. For further correspondence with collectors, see Series II.I.

Arrangement:

Arrangement is by alphabetical order of artist names, object types, and collections, with folder labels, in most cases, transcribed from the original folders and wrappers.

Series II.B. Records of lawsuits, 1916-1938 ca. 2 lin. ft.

Records of lawsuits

Scope and Contents:

The subseries documents lawsuits brought against Duveen Brothers by the dealer Georges-Joseph Demotte, the collector Andrée Hahn and the firm's client Carl Hamilton, regarding the attributions and assessments of artworks. The records consist of correspondence between Duveen Brothers and the firm's lawyers, including prepared public statements, correspondence with involved individuals, and clippings.

Demotte v. Duveen, 1922-1929 ca. 160 items	Box 304	Reel 159
Digital Object: Demotte v. Duveen
Scope and Contents:

The Demotte lawsuit was brought against Duveen Brothers by the dealer Georges-Joseph Demotte. When the collector Michael Dreicer asked Duveen Brothers to assess his collection, the firm declared a 13th-century statue purchased by the collector from Demotte to be a fake. Demotte sued the firm over this assessment of the sculpture. The lawsuit is documented by letters, reports, copies of translations of articles in French papers, copies of cables and letters between the Duveen branches.

Hahn v. Duveen, ca. 1923-1935	Box 304
Scope and Contents: The Hahn v. Duveen lawsuit was brought against Duveen Brothers by Andrée Hahn of Kansas City. Hahn claimed to own Leonardo da Vinci's La belle feronnière and hoped to sell the work as such, when Joseph Duveen declared the painting to be a feeble copy of Leonardo da Vinci's painting in the Louvre. Series II.C. Correspondence between branches, 1932-1964 7.0 Linear Feet

Correspondence between branches

Scope and Contents:

The interoffice correspondence consists of letters and cables sent between the London, Paris and New York offices regarding artworks, information on sales and rumors. Cables are primarily typed copies, with the exception of the file General cables and telegrams, 1954-1962, which includes original cables. Correspondence files may include indices for cables. Copies of translated and transcribed cables appear throughout Series II. For the code used in the correspondence, also see the Code books (Box 221).

Series II.D. Correspondence with museums, 1909-1967 11.0 Linear FeetCorrespondence with museumsScope and Contents:

The correspondence between Duveen Brothers and museums consists of letters regarding the art dealer's offers and sales of artworks and the purchase negotiations carried out by institutions. Of interest is correspondence on the loans to museums made by the firm or the firm's clients and letters related to the firm's donations to museums of artworks, including sculptures and drawings, and of books. The alphabetical arrangement of the files by the names of institutions has been retained, with some files arranged by geographic locations.

Series II.F. Kleinberger & Co., Inc. records, 1906-1971, bulk 1936-1970

8.5 Linear Feet

Kleinberger & Co., Inc. records

Scope and Contents:

The subseries consists of a portion of the records of Kleinberger & Co., Inc., a firm founded in Paris by Franz Kleinberger in 1848. A promoter and importer of 13th-18th century European paintings to the United States, by 1913, Kleinberger was exhibiting at its gallery on lower Fifth Avenue, near Duveen Brothers. Incorporated into the records of Duveen Brothers are the correspondence files of Harry S. Sperling (1906-1971), the grandson of Kleinberger, who was vice president and then president of the firm. The bulk of the records date from Sperling's presidency. They include letters with other dealers, invoices and paid bills, and letters of expertise from art scholars. Correspondence with Kleinberger's nephew Ali Loeb (1928-1969) and with Nicholas Karger (1939-1965) relate to Kleinberger & Co.'s offices in Paris and South America, respectively. The records contain a small amount of Harry Sperling's personal bills, papers relating to his travels and to his involvement with Radio Free Europe.

Series II.G. Edward Fowles papers, 1907-1981 6.0 Linear Feet

Edward Fowles papersScope and Contents:

Edward Fowles's papers relate primarily to his work at the Duveen Brothers firm in the London and Paris offices. The bulk of the papers date from 1917 to 1974. Some of Fowles' personal papers, particularly files for his memoir, are included. Correspondence includes letter from Fowles in London, and from Fowles and Armand Lowengard in the Paris office, to the New York office; letters with dealers and clients; Fowles's correspondence with Bernard Berenson (1919-1939), including negotiations for Berenson's contract with Duveen Brothers; letters with Norton Simon (1961-1974; Fowles sold the Duveen Brothers stock to Simon in 1964); business papers and invoices, including the Duveen Brothers Articles of Partnership (1907). The subseries also contains Fowles's manuscripts and correspondence regarding Fowles and his memoir (1970s-1981), also with reviews of the published book (Memoirs of Duveen Brothers). Included are some family manuscripts, letters and personal investment papers.

Series II.I. Collectors' files, 1901-1965 56.0 Linear Feet

Collectors' files

Scope and Contents:

This subseries contains individual and grouped files on the major collectors (from Altman to Widener) handled by the firm. Files contain correspondence between Duveen Brothers and collectors, between the Duveen branches, as well as letters with other dealers, scouts and experts about dealings with collectors. Original letters from scholars (such as Berenson, Wilhelm von Bode, Maurice Brockwell, R. Langton Douglas, Max Friedländer, Paul Ganz, Leo Planiscig, Georg Swarzenski, Wilhelm Reinhold Valentiner, and others) give expert opinions as well as reports of art works seen in private collections. When original letters of expertise were given away to clients, such as Kress and to Norton Simon (when the firm was sold to him), files of copies exist. Collector files are arranged alphabetically. Files of letters of expertise from scholars are filed at the end of the subseries, but letters also may be found scattered within the collector files.

Series II.J. Bernard Berenson correspondence, 1910-1959 6.0 Linear Feet

Bernard Berenson correspondence

Scope and Contents:

The correspondence between Bernard Berenson and Duveen Brothers concerns art authentication, sales, financial negotiations, and personal notes. In addition, there are numerous requests by Berenson for photographs and auction catalogs. Berenson's letters are addressed to various members of the Duveen staff, especially Joseph, Louis and Henry Duveen, Dowdeswell, and Edward Fowles. There are also letters from Mary Berenson and from Nicky Mariano. Note that Duveen Brothers' code for Berenson "Doris" or just the initials "BB" appears on file labels and throughout the correspondence. For Berenson's authentication photographs, see Series III. Photographs and also Series II. Collectors' files. For further correspondence of Berenson with the Duveen staff, see Series II.G. Edward Fowles papers. For Berenson's X Book, which has remained part of the holdings of the Metropolitan Museum but has been microfilmed and digitized by the Getty Research Institute, see Series V.

Series III. Photographs, indices, negatives, and X rays, n.d. ca. 127 lin. ft.

Scope and Contents:

Series contains photographic materials, including indices, representing Duveen Brothers' stock. Thirty-nine images relate to the history of Duveen Brothers. Seven albums contain photographs (and copies of photographs) annotated by Berenson and other art scholars. Four boxes (2 linear ft.) hold miscellaneous photographs of paintings, some drawings and objects. These photographs and their accompanying negatives are arranged by artist. Nine flat boxes hold X rays of paintings. The bulk of the series comprises ca. 1,500 negatives, mostly glass, most arranged by Duveen stock number, along with 8 boxes of lists and card indices to the negatives. A few of the lists were made by the staff of the Metropolitan Museum, others by Duveen staff or by Murray Keyes who made photographs for Duveen Brothers. The Metropolitan Museum holds full sets of the photographs printed from the negatives in this collection.

Series III.A. Photographs and indices, n.d. ca. 8 lin. ft.

Scope and Contents:

Photographs annotated by Berenson and other scholars, photographs of the Dreyfus collection, photographs of assorted art works (primarily paintings), and lists and indices.

Series III.B. Negatives, n.d. ca. 2,500 negatives

Scope and Contents:

The bulk of this subseries consists of ca. 1,500 glass (and some acetate) negatives arranged in 9 collections (3 separate Duveen collections, in addition to the Detroit Duveens, the Bache Duveens, the Italian Duveens, the Mellon collection, the Otto Kahn Duveens, and the Huntington Duveens) and individually numbered. The negatives were conserved by the Metropolitan Museum. A notebook that documents the treatments performed at the Metropolitan Museum, is now in the Getty Research Library files. In addition, 7 boxes of miscellaneous acetate negatives (Box 567-Box 573) correspond to boxes of photographic prints (Boxes 554-557) in subseries III.A. [N.B.: Negatives were not microfilmed.]

Series V. Duveen Brothers records at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, 1894-1959 11.0 vols.

Duveen Brothers records at the Metropolitan Museum of Art

Scope and Contents:

Series V consists of ten client summary ledgers and the Berenson X book held by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. They were lent to the Getty Research Library for microfilming, which took place in March 2002.

The client summary books (1894-1918, 1910-1959) are loose-leaf notebooks arranged by client name, with descriptions of artworks, furniture and objets d'art sold by Duveen, and prices paid. The Berenson X book (1910-1927) is a listing of the stock acquired through Berenson, authenticated by him, and sold by Duveen.
