

Conditions for use of audiovisual material held by the Getty Research Institute (GRI):

- Permission from the GRI for access and use of the material is not a grant of permission for further reproduction or distribution in any form or for any purpose.
- GRI cannot provide clips or stills of the material for educational or commercial purposes.
- Requester shall be solely responsible for obtaining any permissions, licenses, and clearances necessary for its display or other use of the object, including privacy and publicity rights. Requester shall indemnify and hold harmless the Getty and its employees, agents, officers, and trustees for and from any and all allegations, claims, causes of action (whether threatened or pending), costs, expenses and fees (including attorneys' fees and costs), losses, damages, judgments or liabilities arising from or relating to Requester's display or other use of the object.
- Requester, participants, or audience members, cannot record, reuse, or redistribute the material in whole or part, or in stills, without the written permission from all rights holders.
- Requester will use only the segments of the material that is needed for the presentation/production.
- Requester guarantees deletion of the digital media from all digital repositories and/or return of physical media to the GRI after use.